SERENDIPITY

Seroenodipoioty (sr'n-dp'-t) n- the gift of receiving riches not sought for; the benevolence of chance [From the characters in the Persian fairy tale The Three Princes of Serendipity, who, "as their highnesses traveled, were always making discoveries, by accidents and sagacity, of things which they were not in quest of..."] - Merriam Webster

Serendipity is not exactly a common word - it is rarely used and seldom heard. And yet, what other word, what other concept, so perfectly encompasses four tumultuous years of high school? High school is spent striving towards calculated destinations - whether in sports, classes, or other aspects of life - but arriving somewhere else. Serendipity is searching for one thing, but stumbling onto something better in the process.

As a class, our time in Stoneham High School has been interlaced with the influence of exceptional teachers, unexpected friends, and the emergence of surprising talents that have continuously redirected who we are and who we will become. As a result, and completely by accident, the class of 2010 has forged previously unknown and unintended paths.

We are used to defining accidents as negative moments. We dedicate monumental amounts of time to preventing them. But, despite our most carefully detailed plans, accidents happen. While this is exhausting, frustrating and scemingly unfair, it is the truth. We waste so much energy despising accidents for preventing our success, that we overlook their beauty.

Serendipity is the beauty of accidents and unintended results. Its influence shapes us. Serendipity allows wonders to come into our lives. Serendipity is what allows reality to, believe it or not, surpass our imaginative theories. Even when we are sure of what is best; serendipity surprises us by providing extraordinary alternatives. In the form of revelations, discoveries and blatant errors, serendipity guides us and deposits us where we should be. Our four years in high school have taught us to embrace serendipity. If we only pause and consider the unplanned, we can fully realize it is a gift.

The class of 2010 will continue to accomplish what we aim for and end up relatively close to where we plan to be. Although there will be detours, we will achieve what we work hardest for. That is all well and good. But it is what we do not plan for; it is what we inadvertently discover along the way that leads us to who we truly are. For after all, serendipity is finding something you did not know you were searching for.

"I may not have gone where I intended to go, but I think I have ended up where I needed to be" - Douglas Adams

"When I decided to write this, the first thing that came to me was a quote from Alice's Adventures in Wonderland and Through the Looking Glass by Lewis Carroll, 'Alice moving under skies, Never seen by waking eyes." And I thought of this because it made me realize that this same quote is true for Mr. Riley. Although we may not see him with our waking eyes, he is still moving around us. He is taking care of us, watching over us, and I'm sure he is probably cursing us for making such a fuss over him. Mr. Riley was a simple man, and that was exactly what I needed in my life when I strolled into his class sophomore year when nothing else seemed to be going right. He looked me in the eyes, welcomed me to the first day of class, and instantly I was home. I remember how that evening I sat down at my computer and wrote a very brief chapter to a story in which the main character was based on Mr. Riley. I named him Indigo. And for whatever reason, I became too embarrassed and decided to opt for a different story instead. What I did and did not do in that class does not matter though. The only thing that matters is what he did. His gentle encouragement and lack of criticism made finding my way much easier. If he thought something was wrong, he would merely suggest you try something else; he didn't bother telling you he disliked it. He just wasn't that type of man. Whenever I saw his smiling face, it reassured me that everything was going to be okay. And even now, when I cannot see his face any longer, I still know that everything is going to be all right. It might not be all right when I walk by his room and someone else is sitting at his desk. And it might not be all right when I see the pained looks on the faces of those closest to him. But I know in my heart, when I close my eyes and go to sleep at night, everything will be okay. Because he is always moving around us. Watching us. Guiding us as he did in life. And I will go on, as we all will, because he went on. Leading the race whether he be first or in the middle. Leading us all to a better life. Leading us all to a better education. And now, today, he did exactly what he always did best. He led us to this place, at this time, with these people. We are all together now because of this beautiful man and his wonderful life. I will miss him, more than I could ever say, and I will never forget him for as Iong as I live. I thank his family for updating us on his condition every day of his battle and for reassuring us when they were the ones who needed all the reassurance. You are all amazing people, and I am privileged to be able to share this moment with you. Thank you, and I hope you all keep your chins up. For Mr. Riley."

A tribute from Samantha Horne read during the SHS Memorial Service for Mr. Riley, April 14, 2010.

DEDICATION

Mrs. Patricia DiPietro

We, the Class of 2010, dedicate our yearbook to Mrs. DiPietro, our school librarian, with our sincerest gratitude for countless reasons, to thank her for her countless talents.

After graduating from Simmons College with a Master's degree in Library and Information Science, Mrs. DiPietro worked as a public librarian for ten years and moved to Stoneham with her young family in 1984. Mrs. DiPietro became the Stoneham High School librarian the following year.

Every senior has worked with Mrs. DiPietro at some point in his or her high school career. As freshmen, we all experienced her innovative, thorough, and award-winning orientation program. Since then, we have visited the library with a variety of our classes. For many of those classes, Mrs. DiPietro collaborated with our teachers, prepared lessons on library research, and basically made sure we knew what we were doing. She embraces the fact that every day presents an opportunity to learn something new and, oftentimes, that translates into a new learning experience for her students. She works tirelessly to teach us how to access the boundless information that surrounds us and to intelligently utilize it. Whether it is showing a student how to use the copy machine (again), tracking down an obscure article from an archive, or suggesting a book to a reluctant reader, Mrs. DiPietro uses her expertise to get us to become comfortable with the workings of a library. Because of her efforts, we can confidently cite sources, navigate databases, and return books on time. Projects of immense proportions such as National History Day and the junior research paper would have engulfed us if it were not for her deft assistance, encouragement, and well-meant warnings.

In addition to running the library, Mrs. DiPietro has advised the yearbook staff for the past twelve years guiding them through the long process of creating the definitive record of four years of high school memories and producing a quality publication treasured by the graduating class.

Thank you, Mrs. DiPietro. Thank you for celebrating our successes with us whether it was for an A on a paper or for getting into the college of our choice. Thank you for guiding us through the labyrinth of library research. And, finally, thank you for your priceless dedication.

FACULTY

Each year we begin our routine in early September, truly unaware of how much our teachers will impact us. We receive schedules in the mail with a list of names and classrooms. They mean nothing; a computer simply shuffled around our names and requests and neatly placed us in a class. Therefore, it was lucky happenstance that we met our favorite teacher that first day of earth science. It was an accidental discovery that we found a teacher to share our ideas with in junior English. It was simple luck that we met a history teacher who could guide us through a seemingly impossible task. It was good fortune that we met administrators who could help us with our problems. It was serendipitous that we were matched with faculty members who would help mold us into the people we are today. We want to thank these faculty members for all they've done for us even if our relationship is only based on serendipity.

Mr. Richard Mongeau taxed the brains of our students during his first eight years as a middle school physical science teacher then for the next thirty-one with his physics classes.

Mr. Tom Mayo thoroughly enjoyed his 34 years as a teacher of science and health and as a coach of baseball and gymnastics.

Beginning his career in Stoneham in 1973, Mr. Ed Russo taught social studies and English, coached wrestling, soccer and baseball, and retires after serving as vice-principal and principal of SHS.

Mr. John Strangi retires as vice-principal, but during his 28 years he also taught industrial technology and served as program supervisor of business education, technology education and fine arts.

Mr. Paul Cerrone served as a special education teacher, football coach and baseball coach during his thirty-three years in Stoneham.

A FUNNY THING HAPPENED ON THE WAY TO THE FORUM

A comedy tonight! The spring musical, A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum, sparked a comedic frenzy in the Stoneham High School auditorium. Behind the frenzy was the talented cast, director Mr. Jason Eppskrier, technical supervisor Ms. Danielle Catalano and senior assistant director Deepti Kanneganti. The bizarre and quirky musical first erupts as senior Angelo McDonough, playing Pseudolus, and company belt out the catchy tune of "Comedy Tonight" as various characters rush down the aisles stirring up the excitement. The opening musical number and those to follow were all hits thanks to the musical direction of Mr. Robert Lague. Technical Directors Danielle Salvi and Nikki Roberto and technical assistants Katie Conneelly and Teanny Yuen did a fantastic job morphing the stage into a setting two hundred years before the Christian era, building not only one, but three completely unique and beautiful houses. However, the new world created on stage could not have been captured without the crew, including senior crewmembers Dave Hume and Susmita Mukherjee, as well as hair and makeup artist Audrey Genest.

The play opens on a spring day in the city of Rome. Pseudolus is a fun loving slave who longs for freedom. The twisted plot begins when Pseudolus proposes a deal to Hero (Theo Yeomalakis). Pseudolus promises to arrange a marriage for Hero and the beautiful courtesan Philia (Brittany Cormier). In return he asks for his freedom. The cast of courtesans included lnes Costa, Kali Hegarty, Meghan Sheils, Rachel Proulx, and seniors Alora Frederick and Jill Graczyk; each of whom danced a lovely piece choreographed by Jill Graczyk. Not even the conniving slave could foresee the tangled web that he was about to weave. Senior Ryan Marchant hilariously played the courtesan master, Marcus Lycus, as the comic bit of mistaken identities kicked into high gear. Suddenly everybody is chasing everyone else; Pseudulos runs from the soldiers including senior Billy Jenkins, the courtesans are running wildly across the city, and mayhem covers the stage in one of the funniest scenes of the musical.

In the end it is discovered that the real Philia and Miles Gloriosus (Tony DiBiase) are long-lost brother and sister, and the kidnapped children of Erronia, captivatingly played by Alyssa LoGrasso. Hero and Philia are finally able to be together, and of course the scheming Pseudulos wins his freedom. A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum was an extremely successful spring musical and united Stoneham students, teachers, and parents for a weekend of musical and comedic fulfillment!

Cyrano de Bergerac

In December of 2009, the Stoneham High School Drama Club performed the romantic comedy Cyrano de Bergerac, a story of love, deception and misunderstandings. Cyrano de Bergerac, played by Ryan Marchant, is a gifted poet and swordsman with an unusually large nose. Cyrano is in love with the infamously beautiful Roxane, played by Kali Hegarty, who in turn is in love with the handsome cadet, Christian (Angelo McDonough). Christian's similar feelings make it seem as if their love is meant to be. The catch, however, is that Roxane isn't so much in love with Christian as she is in love with Christian's mind, a mind that actually belongs to Cyrano. Out of his love for Roxane and his well wishes for her, Cyrano agrees to be Christian's voice and brain wherever Roxane is concerned. Everything goes according to plan as Roxane and Christian are soon married. The plot takes an ominous turn as Cyrano and Christian are sent to war.

This tragic yet comedic love story is further brought to life by an all star cast of: Billy Jenkins, Chris Ford, Julianne Ferguson, Chris Stavre, Chris Bilbo, Manda Belliveau, Mary-Kate McGrath, Ashlyn Edwards, Adele Leikauskas, Tim Sheils, Alyssa LoGrasso, Jeff Siegel, Sucharita Mukherjee, Alyssa Marie Ternullo, Rachel Lerman, Connor Barry, Andrew Maganzini, Max Mullowney, and Victoria Lanzilli.

Technical Directors Katie Conneely and Dave Hume, along with Assistant Technical Director Susmita Mukherjee and seniors Matt Luster and David Geehan built a fantastic set. The lighting (Deepti Kanneganti and Jill Graczyk) and sound effects (Dave Hume) along with the props (Mary O'Keefe), costumes (Julianne Ferguson, Fionna Poon, and Claire Dapkiewicz), and hair/make-up (Stephanie Cavanaugh) all contributed to creating this amazing production. The play, Cyrano de Bergerac, directed by Mr. Jason Eppskrier and assistant director Adrianne Born, was a wonderful success.

WINTER CONCERT

On Thursday, December 10, 2009, the Spartan Band, Jazz Ensembles and Chorale performed to their largest audience to date. Kicking off the night was the Intermediate Jazz Group playing three pieces: Autumn Leaves, Black Orphens, and Sister Sadie all under the direction of Mr. Edmund Grammer. Next, the Advanced Group took center stage. There, the mostly senior ensemble rocked out to There Will Never be Another You, and Nica's Dream. Rounding out another great performance, they played Scott John Scofield's Chank in which the soloists included seniors Dave Hume, Mike Mendonca, Billy Raczkowski, Colby Blauvelt and Dave Messuri

Following the brief intermission, the Chorale, under the direction of Mr. Ron Chibaro, entertained the audience with Hallelnjah from the movie Shrek. Next, with the classic Motown hit Ain't No Mountain High Enough, seniors Amanda Flaherty, Caitlin Kerrigan, Emily McCular and Angelo McDonough sang their hearts out. After that, they performed the crowdpleasing Finale B (No Day But Today) from the musical RENT.

Also performing under the direction of Mr. Edmund Grammer was the Concert Band, opening with Aztec Fire. Following the applause came Leroy Anderson's Blue Tango and Green Onions featuring senior soloists Dave Hume, Scott McNamara, and George Arno. As it was the holiday season, Mr. Grammer arranged four holiday pieces, which featured instrumental sections and thirteen seniors: Deepti Kanneganti, Scott McNamara, Erica Paglierani, Zach Pinto, Alicia Farina, David DePalma, George Arno, Alison DeStefano, Brandon Epstein, April O'Donnell, Nick Ciarlante, Claire Dapkiewicz, and Dave Hume. Following the Band's last piece, Velocity by Larry Neek, both the Spartan Band and Chorale came together for a final performance of America and God Bless America. As the evening concluded, all participants were delighted to have delivered another excellent performance.

National Honor Society

The yearly National Honor Society Induction Ceremony is an inspirational event that brings together Stoneham High School's most accomplished students to recognize their exceptional scholarship, leadership, character and service, the specific requirements for becoming a National Honor Society member.

This year's ceremony was especially meaningful with beloved teacher and mentor Ms. Sampson as the guest speaker and student favorite Mr. Schiazza as the honorary inductee. As a department head and teacher, Ms. Sampson has been a source of both personal and academic advice, a mediator and problem solver, and an excellent example for students. She delivered a heartwarming speech, noting the hard work it takes to be a National Honor Society member and touching on the many achievements of the students inducted into the society this year and in years past. History teacher, Mr. Schiazza was named the honorary inductee for his passion in the classroom and his dedication to his students.

The Spartan Chorale gave a beautiful rendition of John Higgins' The Star Spangled Banner. National Honor Society President Deepti Kanneganti, Co-Vice Presidents Alison DeStefano and Zachary Pinto, Secretary Kristiana Lyons, and Treasurer Lauren Kennedy gave speeches regarding character, service, scholarship and leadership, respectively. Once the speeches commenced, the traditional candle lighting and pinning began. The eager inductees filed into place and one by one received their pins, lit their candles, and were awarded their certificates. Senior inductees included Becky Faughnan, Jeff Yerxa, and Kelsey Ring, all recognized for their exceptional achievements.

Parents, family members, and friends observed from their seats in the dimly lit cafeteria, pride and excitement visible on their faces. The National Honor Society Induction Ceremony will forever be remembered as a night to honor those who have achieved so much, worked so hard, and in turn have made Stoneham High a better place to learn and grow.

DramaFest

Each year hundreds of high school drama clubs come together for DramaFest. This year, director Mr. Eppskrier selected the play Backstory by Joan Ackerman. Backstory reveals the relationship between a brother and sister, as well as acknowledges individual character growth. The story focuses on how Ethan and Ainsley Belcher's father left when they were both at a young age. It follows their experiences through adolescence, first jobs, love, drinking, frustration, devastation, hope, annoyance, and the monumental moment of Ethan becoming a father. In the end all these experiences strengthen Ethan and Ainsley's relationship because they were all each other had. This particular play was an anomaly for the Stoneham drama club. The play consisted of monologues and dialogues written by various authors based on Joan Ackerman's short story. Another disparity from other shows was that more than one person was playing a single character. With the help of stage manager Deepti Kanneganti and assistant director Adrianne Born, the eight person cast was selected. The role of Ethan was played by seniors Ryan Marchant and Angelo McDonough, as well as sophomores Jeff Siegel and Connor Barry. The part of Ainsley was played by seniors Alora Frederick and Jill Graczyk, junior Alyssa LoGrasso and freshman Adele Leikauskas. Tech directors Katie Conneely and Dave Hume with the help of senior tech assistant Matt Luster created a beautiful and simple set. Additionally, many wonderful elements made it come to life, such as senior Dave Hume's original music, senior Kanneganti's lighting; the hair and makeup by seniors Jill Graczyk, Stephanie Cavanaugh and juniors Katie Conneely and Stephanie Mendonca; costumes by senior Claire Dapkiewicz, junior Julianne Ferguson and sophomores Nicole Cerullo and Jeff Seigel; props by senior Mary O'Keefe as well as juniors Alison Gould and Rachel Lerman. A video projection produced by seniors Dave Hume, Ryan Marchant, Deepti Kanneganti, Seanna Buckley, and junior Adrianne Born took six hours to download on Friday night of Tech week and ironically it didn't work on the day of Fest. Even with a major element of the production missing the cast continued with their best performance yet. At the awards ceremony, Adele Leikauskas and Connor Barry received individual acting awards. DramaFest was an unforgettable experience and a fun filled day of drama!

Carnival Ball

The 2010 Carnival Ball hosted by Ryan Marchant with the help of Tiffany Fontaine and William Raczkowski, was a humorous treat for all who attended. With the theme of "Behind the Scenes of Carnival Ball," Ryan helped demonstrate all the planning that goes into Carnival Ball every year, from selecting the court to deciding on a theme.

As tradition states, the show began with the entrance of King John Labossiere, Queen Kristiana Lyons and the Royal Court. The attendants included Sarena Byrne, Lisa D'Amore, Tania DeStefano, Audrey Genest, Jill Graczyk, Deepti Kanneganti, Lauren Kennedy, Jennie Lacolla, Paige Minotti, and Karin Yamazaki. The ushers, Zachary Pinto, David Messuri, Joseph Santoro, William Raczkowski, Jeffrey Yerxa, Michael Regan, Anthony Tse, Kristopher Angelosanto, Calvin Tague, and Eric Trant, escorted them on stage after they had walked down the aisle to Pomp and Circumstance performed by the SHS concert band. Under the direction of Mr. Grammer, the concert band also opened the night with performances of Ghost in the Attic by Larry Neeck and It Don't Mean a Thing if it Ain't Got That Swing by Duke Ellington.

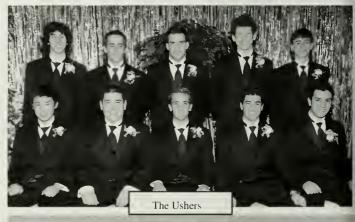

Each grade had the task of creating an act that demonstrated the work and planning that goes into creating a class act. As a special treat this year, the students were surprised with an act from the teachers for the first time in a few years which demonstrated what they thought a good Carnival Ball act should be.

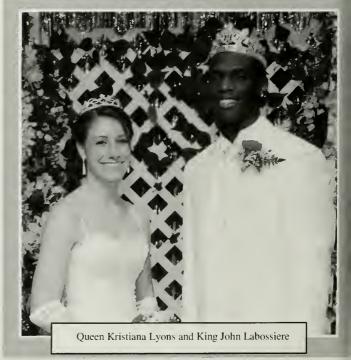

As usual, the individual talent performances were nothing short of spectacular. The first of the performances was Dave Hume, Connor Barry, and Alex Costa as they conveyed their renditions of Can't Stop by the Red Hot Chili Peppers and Poker Face by Lady Gaga. Next was Daniela Colucci as she performed a jazz dance to Bad by Michael Jackson which had the crowd on their feet. Never before had a gymnastics routine been performed on the Carnival Ball stage until this year when Brandon Epstein performed a routine to Renegade which truly left the audience speechless. Jill Graczyk performed a moving point dance routine to Halo by Beyonce. As the finale performance, Kali Hegarty played the guitar and sang an original song titled Sunny Someday.

The Spartan Chorale along with the Intermediate and Advanced Jazz Ensembles were nothing short of fabulous as they delivered more outstanding performances. The Spartan Chorale under the director of Mr. Chiabaro performed Finale B from the musical Rent. The Intermediate Jazz Ensemble performed Maiden Voyage along with Watermelon Man while the Advanced group performed Flying Home and Take Five under the direction of Mr. Grammer.

All in all, this year's Carnival Ball successfully continued the tradition of showcasing our talented students (and faculty).

The 2009 Varsity Field Hockey season was one of the program's strongest in recent years. Although we did not win every game, we remained a challenging presence in the Middlesex League. Some of our most memorable contests include a tied shut-out against tournament-bound Melrose and the first win over Winchester in seven years, with a score of 2-0. To these achievements we owe our sincere gratitude and thanks to Coach Dobbins, for all her tireless dedication and putting up with us (even when practices got a little silly) and our goofy, enthusiastic team. Our nine seniors played a vital role in revitalizing the program, leading our team to success. Claire Dapkiewicz, captain and representative to the All-Star team, has been a dominant force on our varsity midfield since her freshman year. Allie Lauria, captain and forward, was vital to our offense. Alicia Farina, captain and goalie, was a key part of the successful defense. Deepti Kanneganti was a trustworthy sweeper while Emily McCular, honorable mention for the All Star team, also played stellar defense. Tiffany Fontaine was a force to be reckoned with in the midfield along with Kristiana Lyons, one of the team's most versatile players. Sarena Byrne was a goal scoring forward and Lisa D'Amore was an asset to the team in every position she played. Sophomore Alycia Whooley was crucial to our team's success, becoming one of the top goal scorers in the league. The 2010 team will be led by next season's captains, Kristin Cashman and Alana Reinold. We had a truly amazing season and we'll never the memories we created- the crazy scavenger hunt, singing Taylor Swift on the bus, the hilarious sleepovers- or the team we made them with.

This year was a big regrouping year for us. With losing seven seniors last year, we were not sure if we were even going to have a team . Thanks to our two returning players, junior captain Danny Lumb and sophomore Kevin Young, new golfers were scouted and brought on the team. Unfortunately, we still had a losing season. We only had one senior this year, James Kelly, a great addition to the team. James was bounced around in the bottom half of the lineup, but he always gave it his all. Even after the match was over, win or lose, he was in a positive mood and there for anyone who had had a bad round. Other than James, we had nine golfers. For juniors, we had D. J. Arsenault, Adam Navarro, and Captain Danny Lumb. Sophomores included Danny Shannon, Kevin Young, Stephen Columbus, Mike Kelly, and John Conlin. Representing freshmen was Danny Bullock. With nine returning players next year we hope it will be a better season, but we will all miss having James in the Tee box with us.

Coming into the season, we knew that this year would be different than any other. At first having a new coach brought apprehension to the team, but we soon adapted to working hard and later realized that it was the best thing that could have happened to this program. Thanks to our coaches Andrew Viselli and Lloyd Douglas, we mastered the game and realized our aspiration to win. We soon found that we were more determined than ever before, and with that mentality we had one goal in mind: to make the tournament. Captain Christina Caiazzo led the team with her amazing sets and inspirational speeches to get us pumped up before games. Captain Madeleine Gaughan provided many kills during the games and maintained a strong focus for the team throughout the entire season. Talia Buonopane always put in 100%, whether she played as an outside or as a middle. Paige Minotti greatly improved and had many strong hits from the opposite position. Casey McKinnon always kept the team's spirits up and stuck with it. Alyssa Penney always had a guaranteed laugh, even through a tough practice, and was committed to showing tremendous effort. Fran Vitale without fail would always have a smile on her face and manage to get the ball up. Madison Burns was a player that could step up to the challenge no matter what the situation was. Hannah Saro had many strong suits, but the one that stood out was her serving which often resulted in aces. Despite missing the tournament by three losses, it was evident that we made an impressive transformation from last year. This was clearly shown in our last game against Reading when we took one match from them, a feat that hadn't been achieved for many years. Over these three months, not only did we grow as a team, but we became best friends. Our passion for the sport taught us the true meaning of sacrifice and dedication, a lesson we will take with us wherever we go in life. We are so excited to come back and watch this team as they constantly improve. And remember ladies, "Balls to the

This year our team had three seniors: Audrey Genest, Alison DeStefano, and Lauren Kennedy. Audrey and Lauren earned the title of captain for each of the three 2009-2010 running seasons, cross-country, indoor track, and outdoor track. Other valuable runners this year include future captain junior Julie Rafferty and sophomores Adrianne Stelmack and Emily McNamara, new additions to our small team, who readily improved as the season went on and contributed enormously to our success. Along with our impressive newcomers, returning runners Adrianne Stelmack and Julie Rafferty both had remarkable transformations and proved to be great assets to the team. Although many members were inexperienced or injured in the beginning, we definitely emerged stronger by the end of the season. Without the tremendous help and guidance from our coach, Mr. Norton, we wouldn't have had such a successful and enjoyable season. Our final record and performances at the last Middlesex League meet proved our hard work and our improvement throughout the season. For the first time in Audrey's and Lauren's four years, the team came forward with a winning record of 5 wins and 4 losses. Because of our victory against Burlington in the last meet, we saw a winning season instead of a losing one. With one of the smallest teams in the Middlesex League, we faced great challenges and overcame them with a characteristically high morale.

Coming into the season with a new coach, nobody was sure what to expect, but with the determination to compete, the girls kicked it into high gear to learn the routine. Every day, practice consisted of intense stunting, jumping, and tumbling. No one was used to all of the hard work we faced. Throughout the season we came across many challenges and problems. Using teamwork, we were able to get through all of these and come out as a stronger team. Competition was very nerve-wracking since most of the girls hadn't competed in a few years. Even with all of that pressure, we still did an outstanding job. Since we didn't move on to the competition, we refocused our attention to the pep rally. This was our chance to show the school that we really are athletes. At the pep rally, we were able to perform our routine flawlessly. Throughout the season, we have improved tremendously. We were able to accomplish all of the goals we set for ourselves at the beginning of the season. The cheerleading program at our school is becoming much more competitive. We finished this season with an 8-9-1 record. The character of our team was tested throughout the season, and although we may not have had the season we hoped to have, this season was still a memorable one. About midway through the season, we were up against Lexington squad who had a Middlesex League winning streak that dated back to the 2008 season. Regardless of this tremendous winning streak, we did not count ourselves out of the game. There was a tie score with only about 20 minutes left in a very intense game. After questionable circumstances in which we were given 2 red cards, we lost the game by a score of 4-2. Many teams would have put their heads down after such a crushing loss, but we did not. We did not receive any more cards, however, we were eliminated from the tournament after a loss to Reading. Despite already being eliminated, the character and integrity of our team was shown again as we bounced back and won our final game of the year against our rival Winchester by a score of 2-1

Alex Domenici was the goalkeeper this year and he came up with some crucial saves in bigame situations. Frank Annunziata, who always gave his best, and John Ryder, who stepped up after starting the year as goalie, were senior anchors of the Spartan defense. Pete Alie always played his hardest no matter where he was on the field, and Mike Regan played forward and did the scoring for the Spartans this season.

We would like to thank Coach Carino, Coach Serino, and Coach Zampell for their coaching throughout the season. Although it was a roller-coaster ride, we hope they enjoyed this season as much as we did. We would also like to thank Coach Butterworth and Roger for helping out whenever they got the chance. We were all grateful to have such devoted coaches. We had a very young team this year and we hope that they will continue to grow as a team to bring more victories to the program next year.

After a tough 2008 season, most of the returning players had a feeling of redemption that settled in for the new season. There was a common goal among us: to prove to the Middlesex League that we were worthy of intense competition and should not be the town overlooked in a match. Through an indoor league, spring club team, and summer workouts, everyone had a clear vision of their role on the team. We stressed commitment, positivity, and team chemistry. As cliched as it sounds, we did become a family, or some call us a cult; traveling as a program into Boston, huddling our way into a haunted house, attempting sneaky TP missions, and supporting other SHS sports teams. Traditional pasta parties a few times a week never seem to get old. Seven pounds of pasta was never a challenge for 21 girls. With a regular season record struggle with complacency, a common trend was our aggressive hustle in the second half. Ms. Chapman would expect a list of personal and team goals to be established before the season started and once again at the half-way mark. These goals reminded us to play with heart. This season would not have been as successful without Ms. Chapman's constant support and inspiration. Her desire for us to achieve greatness was a huge factor in the success of this season. Also, the incredible leadership of our seniors along with the respect and cooperation of our underclassmen, made 2009 season a memory that will last a lifetime. Making it to the tournament was a triumph in itself. Ending the season with a record of 9-5-5, we are left with great memories and life lessons learned. Our last game will not be our last memory. Thank you to the coaching staff, fellow seniors, and underclassmen for truly "tossin' em and drinkin' it!" We love you and will miss you!

The swim team showed a lot of perseverance and determination this year, competing in a tough Middlesex League with only 17 girls. Our coaches, Mrs. Collins and Mr. Hechenbleikner were extremely supportive and kept us motivated through the tough sets (especially the Super 5) and late-night practices at the Voke. We swam with plenty of heart and spirit, and though our record of 3-5 may not show it, the other teams noticed. There were several very close meets, but regardless of the outcome, we always saved enough energy to sing "Party in the U.S.A" and "I Will Survive."

Our regular dual meet season ended against Reading, with great performances from across the board. Everybody felt a rush of adrenaline, but it was an especially emotional day for the seniors: Daniela Colucci, Courtney Day, Danielle Foster, April O'Donnell, Chelsea Newcomb, Kate Muldowney, Michelle Morales, and Captain Karin Yamazaki. Together, the seniors swam their last swim meet as Spartans.

As for the postseason, Stoneham sent two individuals and three relays to the North Sectional and State Meet, where all of our relays placed in the top 12. At Sectionals, Courtney Day displayed incredible fortitude, competing in the 200-yd individual medley with a broken foot, while junior Emily Houghton placed 12th in the 100-yd backstroke and 10th in the 50-yd freestyle. At States, the 400-yd free relay consisting of Day, Houghton, freshman Monika Sobieszek, and junior Ally McCarville dropped five seconds from their previous best time, breaking the school record with a blazing time of 4:00.63, placing 9th overall.

Losing a large number of seniors at the end of last year we were a little skeptical of what this season held in store for us. Not only did we lose seniors, but we lost a great coach, Coach Powers, who stepped down after the previous season. We had some formidable replacements take over though, getting Coach Herook, a former Stoneham track athlete, and Coach Kopek who is familiar with the program helping out with spring track and being a former SHS track athlete as well. Luckily, a larger number of first year track athletes joined the team. With a rough opening meet we were nervous about what was to come. The introduction of plyometric training or "plyos" a word we all hated to hear, resulted in great performances all season long for captains Pete Alie, Eric Trant, Mike Greaves, and Shaaz Nomani as well as other seniors Scott McNamara, Kevin Griffin, Bobby Andrews, Jon Lai, Yong Deng, and Zack Aidonidis. We ended up with some great results including a win against Belmont, We had a few state qualifiers, Pete Alie in high jump and hurdles, Mike Kelley in the dash, and a 4x200 team consisting of Pete Alie, Mike Kelley, Anthony DeAngelo, and Pat Canavan. All in all, it was an enjoyable season and we would like to thank all who helped make it that

This year our team had eight seniors: Allie Lauria, Penney, Alissa Kotowski, Alison DeStefano, Audrey Genest, April O'Donnell, Lisa D'Amore, and Lauren Kennedy. Each of the seniors put forth their best effort throughout the season and brought character and leadership to the team. Other valuable athletes include juniors Taylor Havican, Christie Manfra, Julie Rafferty, Alana Reinold, and Melissa Zeitlin, along with sophomores Emily McNamara, Adrianne Stelmack, and Leah Zizza. Outstanding freshmen include Morgan Havican, Abby Kendall, Aly Kruse, Amanda Mohammadi, and Lauren O'Neil. Many members of the team, namely Allie Lauria, Melissa Zeitlin, and Adrianne Stelmack faced sickness and injury, which hindered their ability to compete through an entire season. Despite these obstacles among others, our 2009-2010 indoor track team finished the season with a winning records of 5-4. Although the new system of competition was somewhat difficult to adjust to, thanks to our coaches Ms. Carter, Ms. Gardner, and Ms. DiLisio, and the extraordinary efforts of all the members of our team, we were able to succeed. Some examples of the success we managed to achieve during the season are visible through our five Middlesex League All-Stars. This year the All-Stars included Taylor Havican in the 600 meters, Lauren Kennedy in the 2 mile, Christie Manfra in the 55 meter hurdles, Audrey Genest in the high jump, and April O'Donnell in the shot put. The 400 meter relay team comprised of Christie Manfra, Taylor Havican, Morgan Havican, and Amanda Mohammadi also reached great lengths as they competed in the all-states meet. With one of the smallest teams in the Middlesex League, we faced great challenges, such as an entirely new system and physical complications, but we overcame them with a characteristically high morale.

Hoping to have a winning record for the season, we were optimistic about the returning and new talent on our team. Although we had to fight through many injuries, we as captains, feel that we accomplished our goal. As usual, we began our season with Coach McNeil's special brand of kindness: one full week of conditioning. Thereafter, we were put to the test in our first competition in which we beat two teams instilling a sense of pride within us.

As the season progressed, the six freshman, one sophomore, three junior, and five senior team members continued to work to our full potential. Because of all our hard work, we eventually ended the season collectively scoring a 137.55, just missing the school record by only 0.25. Even though we missed the school record, two of our gymnasts did happen to capture some of their own. Sarah Muolo, a freshman, scored a 9.4 on beam at the League Meet, and Brandon Epstein, a senior, scored a 9.4 on floor, also at the League meet. He scored a 9.0 at the Senior Superbowl Meet.

Adding to an already successful season, we had three teammates qualify for State Individuals: Brandon Epstein, Giovanna Lomartire, and Sarah Muolo. There, Sarah placed fifth on floor while Brandon placed second. What a way to top off a great season!

During a grueling season, we managed to come together and bond as a team at many pasta parties, a day at LaserQuest, and a sleepover. Although we might have had only fifteen gymnasts, small in comparison to other teams in the league, as a team we proved that quality trumps quantity. In closing, the captains and the other seniors would like to thank the team and Coach McNeil for a wonderfully memorable: season.

This season was a great learning experience. Our overall record was 2-18 and we played as hard as ever. Everyone on the team brought everything to the table, whether it was at practice or a game. Each player always gave 110% and the team's intensity was tremendous. We were all crushed when we lost to Greater Lowell by 1 point in the Championship of the Christmas tournament. If we had pulled away with that win, we would have punched our ticket into the state tournament. We had our ups and downs just like every team has, but at the end of our season we all felt like we had formed a special bond with each other. While losing valuable seniors, much of our team is young and we will be back to battle in the Middlesex League next year, and be a serious contender in the Division III North State Tournament.

This season we accomplished something that Stoneham Girls Basketball has never done before: winning the Middlesex League, thus earning our first banner ever. There is no way we could have done it without our three amazing coaches pushing us to the limit. For that, we thank you Coach Billings, Coach Smith, and Coach Killilea. Our team worked as hard as we could, pushing each other on and off the court. We were always positive and always had the right attitude, win or lose. For the second year in a row, we've protected our home court, going undefeated all season. Our performance and team chemistry grew throughout the off season and made us stronger during our inseason games. Whether it was AAU or just shooting around in our driveways, each one of us worked hard and practiced in our own way to achieve success.

Our season was like a roller coaster ride. We started strong, winning our first nine games, including the defeat of our biggest league competition, Melrose, in double-overtime. It was one of the most memorable games of this season. We experienced many different emotions ranging from anxiety and shock to absolute hysteria and happiness. Two games later, we lost to Reading. We kept our heads held high, and knew we still had a chance until we added two more losses to our record, after playing Winchester and Melrose for the second time. After these losses, our hopes and dreams were shattered, forcing us to second place. However, with our final victory against Reading, we made Girl's Basketball history, earning a tri-championship banner.

Moving on to the tournament, and getting a "bye" from the first round, we kept our momentum rolling during our quarter-final home game versus North Reading. After our victory, we knew we were to face tough competition. Even after practicing for countless hours in preparation for this game, and after playing with heart until the final buzzer, Bishop Fenwick beat us by 4, bringing our season to a close. Though we were extremely disappointed and sad that this was our last game at Stoneham High, we were extremely happy with our success and proud of our team. We'd like to thank again our determined coaches and teammates for making this an historic senior season. And of course, thank you to our Teletubbies, Spaceman, Lobster, our numerous Spartans, and all of our other Superfans. You were amazing. Good luck next year to the returning players; we know you'll be amazing.

As the season progressed, the became more comfortable performing in front of an audience and made impressive an transformation. Our coach, Miss Frangules, made a huge contribution to the team as well. Miss Frangules successfully worked with the team to build our strength and talent, and for that we thank her. Because the girls' basketball team made the tournament, as captains, we decided to support the team and cheer at the home games. Although we didn't finish the season with a great record we competitively played some of the top public school teams in the state. We wish them good luck next year.

With the success of last season fresh in our minds, we entered into this season hungry and determined to be even better. As soon as we stepped onto the ice it became apparent that the only word to describe our team was- ready. From the first practice to the last game every girl put 110% into everything she did. from the grueling sprints to the intense games not one girl ever gave up. As teammates, we had expectations of one another and expectations about the incredible effort all players would put forth. It inspired all of us to do the same. We became one another's support and inspiration and that is why we were immediately successful.

In the season opener we came out unstoppable and for the first time ever gained a victory against Woburn. This first game, home game and season win left us speechless as we watched our team play with endless determination. This gave us the incentive to work harder. The victory against Woburn wasn't our only first; we also had our first victory against Wakefield in our 2nd season game. Our first victory against our Reading rivals on Senior Night, was the most exciting -- for the first time Stoneham Girls Hockey has ever made it to the tournament! If we proved one thing this season, it was that our hockey team was capable of anything. The number one goal we set for ourselves was to shock not only the Middlesex League but everyone; we achieved our goal.

Spending endless hours with each other, we began to realize the true meaning of being part of a team and we created memories that will last a lifetime. Over time, the season wasn't just about winning but about growing, achieving, and challenging ourselves to be the best we could be. As captains, we couldn't have hand-picked a better group of girls to call our team! Through all the triumphs, pasta parties, hardships, inside jokes, locker room dance sessions and outstanding accomplishments we leave the season behind with a record of 8-7-3 and excitement for next season to begin.

An unforgettable experience that sticks out in my mind happened during senior year in Mr. Mongeau's fifth period A.P/Honors physics class. In preparation for an upcoming test, Mr. Mongeau was giving us some pretty challenging problems to work on. At the beginning of these problems, everyone seemed willing to learn and willing to figure out the solutions. But by the fourth or fifth problem, we had all become so drained for knowledge that we became slightly delirious. Mr. Mongeau then sang his "canceling-out variables" song, and at that point, no one could stop laughing. Everyone thought it was absolutely hilarious that Mr. Mongeau sang and danced in front of the chalk board that day, and from that day forward, I will not forget the canceling-out song.

Every amazing memory I have comes from being a part of the SHS Drama Club. Ever since freshman year I have been surrounded with such incredible people with outstanding talent. One memory stands out to me specifically though and that would be performing in Grease my freshman year.

Ms. Catalano and Mr. Epps gave me a chance that year by giving me the role of Roger, a T-Bird. I was extremely nervous because I found out I had to sing two songs, which had never happened to me before! Everyone helped me out though and I soon had the confidence to deliver on stage. That role really changed my life because I knew I wanted to pursue theater, but that year gave me the confidence to do so. Thank you, Stoneham High School Drama Club, for everything.

One of my most memorable moments at Stoneham High School was being inducted into the National Honor Society. When I first found out that I was a nominee, I was shocked. I honestly did not expect to be nominated, so I was very excited. I got to work right away on my essay, hoping for the best. I passed in my essay, and waited one of the seemingly longest waits of my life.

The day I found out that I made it was one of the best times of my life. I was extremely excited for the day of the induction. That day was the day before my birthday, so overall it was a great week. At the induction, we all received our NHS pins, lit our candles, and recited the NHS oath. I was more concerned about burning myself with the candle wax than messing up the oath. This high school experience made me feel good about myself.

Emily McCular

It was a cold April morning as we all boarded the bus and, as far as I could see, everyone was bursting with excitement. The funny part was that in that moment, many of us were more excited about the seven hour bus ride we got to spend together than about the actual vacation itself. After several stops and a trip through Canadian customs, we finally arrived at our adorable inn in Quebec. We had a quick check-in and then it was off to sightsee. I'll never forget the first time I saw the beautiful Chateau Frontenac. Throughout the next few days, there were many more memories to be made. We ate breakfast at a traditional Native American restaurant, swing danced at the Sugar Shack, shopped in Quebec City, watched our teachers act as soldiers and managed to speak a little French along the way. For me, this trip stands out as a highlight when I reflect on high school and I'm sure that for everyone else who went, it does as well.

Erica Paglierani

My favorite memory in Stoneham High School had to be when Alison DeStefano, Deepti Kanneganti, and I participated in the State Competition for National History Day the morning after our Junior Prom. In an effort to enjoy our prom and not give up on our performance of Charlie Chaplin, we decided to participate in both. After dancing all night and not getting even an hour of sleep, we awoke at 5:00 a.m., ran to my house to print out the annotated bibliography, then went on our way. When it was time, we performed our best and came in first place! It was truly surreal and will stay in all of our memories forever.

Kristiana Lyons

When considering all of the different memories I have from my four years here, one stands out far above the others. One cold, rainy Saturday morning in November of our senior year, I woke up early to race in my last high school Cross Country meet, the Class C State Meet. The boys and girls teams met at the school, and from there we took a bus to Franklin Park in Boston. Upon arriving, we saw that the course was in terrible condition. Torrential rain for the past few hours had covered parts of the course with pools of water deep enough to prompt the P.A. announcer to make an announcement prohibiting runners from wading and swimming in them. You couldn't take more than three steps without stepping in mud. Even the Stoneham Spartans overhead tent we had brought to protect us from the elements did nothing to prevent us or our belongings from becoming soaked with rain. Despite these horrendous course conditions and the ceaseless rain, however, races went on.

Standing on the furthest left lane of the starting line already drenched to the bone and shivering, I looked to my right and saw nearly 200 athletes preparing to start. They too were soaking wet, but were still resolute and determined to overcome the day's adversities and run their best. 'Bang!' The gun went off, and like stampeding wildebeests, we all ran off the line with a common goal in mind: the finish line. Right off the line, I remember realizing how unique, intense, and fun racing in these conditions truly was, and I began to laugh to myself. After slipping, sliding, and splashing through the 5K course, I crossed the finish line, still smiling to myself. While I was nearly a minute slower than my best time that day, and came nowhere close to winning the race, I knew that this day would be something I would remember for the rest of my life.

Scott McNamara

The first memory that came to my mind when thinking about my favorite memory was way back in freshman year - technically even before it started. It was during our freshman orientation that I realized that high school would be much different than middle school. Our Honors Earth Science teacher Mr. Jackson, whom we were meeting for the first time, asked us what seemed to be a very simple question: Why does the Earth tilt? It took much frustration to realize that a fact that we had accepted all of our lives was virtually unexplainable to us at the time. It was no longer acceptable to spit back facts and ideas; we had to think critically and analyze. Also, what I remember about that short period was that Mr. Jackson assigned us homework, when school had not officially started yet. In that one period we transitioned into high school and I will never forget the excitement we all felt on that very first day.

Alison DeStefano

As horrible as this sounds, my favorite memory at Stoneham High was the day the school caught on fire. The last thing I said to one of my friends before my first class was, "I have a feeling this is going to be a long week." It was a Monday morning in March and I was in the middle of taking an English test in Mr. Riley's class, when the fire alarm went off.

When I went outside I was horrified to see black smoke and I became very nervous. Although, once I found out everyone was safe I felt immediate relief. The best part of that day was that we got to go home at about nine o'clock that morning and we were out of school the rest of the week! Even though we did have to make up a few days at the end of the year, it was well worth it. I will never forget the one week vacation we received in March because of the day Stoneham High School caught on fire.

Daniela N. Colucci Our Little Girl Is All Grown Up

Gotta hold on easy as we let you go Gonna tell you how much we love you Though you think you already know

We remember we thought you looked like an angel wrapped in pink so soft and warm You've had us wrapped around your finger since the day you were born

When you were in trouble that crooked little smile could melt our heart of stone Now look at you, we've turned around and you've almost grown Sometimes you're asleep we whisper "I Love You" in the moonlight at your door As we walk away, we hear you say, "Love You More"

You beautiful baby from the outside in Chase your dreams but always know the road that'll lead you home again Go on, take on this whole world But to us you know you'll always be, our little girl.

From the senior Student Council members: Jon, Alison, Brandon, Erica, Lisa, Deepti, Casey, Daniela, Zach, Talia, Maddie, Scott, and Bobby

"You are the person who has to decide.
Whether you'll do it or toss it aside;
You are the person who makes up your mind.
Whether you'll lead or will linger behind.
Whether you'll try for the goal that's afar.
Or just be contented to stay where you are."
